

NOTES FROM COUNTY EXTENSION WORK

D. H. Ridley, County Agent; Gilberta P. Watters, County Club Agent; Ada Brewster, Home Demonstration Agent

COUNTY CONTEST

County contest will be held October 29 at the Association Hall in South Paris. The program will begin at 10:00 A. M. All boys and girls who have completed their projects, written their stories and submitted a record, may attend. Local leaders are asked to make a special effort to bring persons who attend this meeting to bring their lunch.

Exhibits which have been chosen for the Association Hall at 10 A. M. on October 29. The requirements for exhibits for County Contest are the same as for the State Contest.

County Champion to be Announced. The list of county champions will be announced at this meeting. Also the character and quality of achievement will be given.

LOCAL CONTESTS. This for the local contests have been made good. Good attendance and good projects show that a great deal of work has been done by the local leaders and members. The per cent. of work has been particularly high. Let's keep the good work up.

SPEAKERS ON OCTOBER 14-H RADIO PROGRAM TO SHOW HOW CLUB WORK HAS PROVED ITS WORTH.

How a mother to manage the home is one of the most practical things that girls can learn. The 4-H Club work. How 4-H Club girls help their mothers in the home. The management of the home will be given in a radio talk to be given by Mrs. J. W. Sawyer, club member from Kennebunk, in the national 4-H Club radio program to be broadcast from 12:30 to 1:00 P. M. on standard time, on October 14.

POULTRY COMMITTEE MEETING. Keeping more poultry or adding it as an enterprise, is the gist of the recommendations made by a group of Oxford County citizens meeting Thursday, Sept. 22, at the Farm Bureau Office.

The committee was called by R. W. Sawyer, president of the Oxford County Farm Bureau, after they had given consideration to present conditions. Poultry keeping, the committee found, has been one of the most profitable enterprises in the county during the last ten years.

Economic Factors Discussed. H. L. Richardson, extension poultry specialist, presented a plan for carrying on the poultry enterprise in cooperation with the Oxford County Farm Bureau and the Extension Service. Mr. R. W. Sawyer, farm management specialist for the Extension Service, presented a picture of the poultry business as it relates to production, prices, markets, and the future of poultry keeping in Maine. They are:

1. The production of eggs per hen in Maine is high when compared with other areas.
2. Maine eggs and poultry sell in Boston for higher prices than in other parts of the country.
3. These products coming from the North-West.

Yvonne Laroque was at home from Fryeburg, for the week end.

Mrs. Strong and daughter and baby granddaughter, who have occupied the Davey cottage, have returned to New Jersey.

CENTER LOVELL

A good crowd attended the harvest supper, Saturday night.

Violet Wilkenson has returned from the hospital and seems to be gaining fast.

Lila Stanley is helping care for her daughter, Mabel McAlister.

E. B. Sawyer from West Mills took dinner with his brother, L. C. Sawyer, Sunday, also called at Warren McKenney's.

Leigh Davey and family have closed their summer home and returned to Glen Ridge, N. J.

Emma Pooler has gone to Portland for the winter.

Sargent Stearns from Boston has been visiting his brother, L. L. Stearns.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Stearns were callers at R. E. McAlister's, Sunday.

Lottie Palmer and Florence Andrews enjoyed a trip to Lewiston, Thursday afternoon.

Stanley Milliken has moved his family to Maple Lane.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert McKenney and son John were in Portland, Sunday.

The house was beautifully decorated with roses and fall flowers, the gift of Mrs. Wilkins of Tamarack Lodge, Bridgton. Cards and games were played. First prize at what being won by Robert's teacher, Miss Wardwell; second, Dwight. Rose. Ice cream and cake were served by the host, assisted by Mrs. Jennie Stevens.

Mrs. Moore, Miss Moore and Miss M. Walker of Boston called on Mr. and Mrs. R. Douglass.

OXFORD-FORE STREET

Judkins Cummings and wife, of West Paris, were at his mother's home, Tuesday afternoon, with the car laden with apples for jelly, McIntosh Reds. The air is heavy with the odors of pickles and jelly and canned goods every day. Every available jar is filled against the day in winter coming when depression may put her foot against the door and nothing else can enter in. My! Then the rows on rows of well filled cans of good substantial things will look and be tasted.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Twitchell have been here and there. Find them strong and healthy, though not much honey in store for winter. The little busy bees couldn't seem to gather much honey from the open flowers this season. "None there for them," Al said, and gave the reason, but we forgot. Ask him.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Brown, Elmer Twitchell and wife, Herman Thurlow, Al Twitchell and family, also Flora Cummings, attended conference held in Bridgton, Sept. 22-25. Such good roads, wonderful weather and scenic beauty all along the way that most of them came home after evening meeting, to return next day, though all were welcome to remain and be right royally entertained, on rolled past Monday, playing the everyday tunes, car covered, with red lettering and no doubt a monkey somewhere abouts to get any penny coming its way.

Albert Twitchell is doing all plowing for his grandfather, Elmer Twitchell.

Chestina Twitchell visited her friend, Mrs. George Quint, of Gray, Monday.

Elmer Twitchell was in Portland, Monday, on a business trip. Al and wife took their son, James, to see the eye specialist this week. The doctor said "twas doing well. They must needs go again about Christmas time.

Seems to be glad time, standard time, for all time. Now when autumn is passed short days of winter come, why not change time again and have clocks an hour back of standard time? I'd suggest calling it "midnight saving time" to match the "daylight saving time." Save burning the candles both ends of the day, if not up too early.
